

California Collaborative for Long Term Services and Supports

At a Glance

The California Collaborative for Long Term Services and Supports (LTSS) is a statewide coalition of aging and disability organizations that advance LTSS policy. Membership is comprised of about 30 statewide organizations of clients, providers, advocates, and legal services. Since its formation in 2011, the Collaborative has become the “go-to” group for state and federal agencies administering the Coordinated Care Initiative. The Collaborative focus is on opportunities for coordination among government programs and to assist state decision makers to anticipate demographic changes in aging and disability.

Guiding Principles

1. Dignity: The services are grounded in respect for the person who uses them and driven by the preferences of that person.
2. Choice: Access to all types of services is provided on an equal footing.
3. Flexibility: The services are comprehensive and flexible enough to meet changing needs and incorporate new modes of service and supports.
4. Quality: Public funding and oversight that values and rewards high-quality care.
5. Legality: The services are consistent with the legal rights of individuals who use them.
6. Cultural Competence: The services are appropriate and responsive to the needs of underserved populations.
7. Accessibility: The services and information about them are easy to locate and use and are physically and programmatically accessible.
8. Affordability: The services are cost-effective for the person and the system.
9. Inclusive: The system recognizes and supports the crucial role of high-quality paid and unpaid caregivers, including family caregivers, and emphasizes the importance of workforce development and training
10. Independence: The services support maximum independence, full social integration and quality of life.

Aging and Disability Coalition of Lake and Mendocino Counties

At a Glance

In 2013, the Community Care Management Corporation and the Disability Services and Legal Center applied for an Aging and Disability Resource Connection (ADRC) grant. The two agencies participate in a number of public committees together and meet regularly to seek out opportunities to create an ADRC and consult with one another. Their Aging and Disability Coalition of Lake and Mendocino Counties plans to become a forum for providers to elevate and address issues specific to vulnerable populations and act proactively to support this population in their region. The Coalition aims to formalize these efforts, expand membership, and advance discussions to bring an ADRC to fruition.

Bay Area Senior Health Policy Coalition

At a Glance

Formed in 2009, the Bay Area Senior Health Policy Coalition’s mission is to inspire, exchange, educate and engage advocates, providers, policymakers, and other stakeholders in their efforts to strengthen the safety net for Bay Area seniors. The Coalition has active representation from Alameda, Contra Costa, San Francisco, and Santa Clara counties. The Coalition is working to involve representatives from San Mateo, Marin, Solano, and Sonoma counties. The Coalition sponsors a biennial Senior Health Policy Forum. The most recent event focused on “Bridging the Aging Service Gap: An Economic Imperative.” The Coalition aims to forge and strengthen relationships across programs and geography, learn from best practices on a regional basis, and find a common voice as providers and advocates.

Central Valley Long Term Support and Services Coalition

At a Glance

The Central Valley Long Term Support and Services Coalition (CVLTSS) Coalition grew out of the expanded efforts of the Elder Abuse Prevention Roundtable (EAPRT). EAPRT started in 1997 with 15 participants. Today the Coalition includes members from protective agencies, social services agencies, legal services, senior services, private attorneys, and advocates. The Coalition's mission is to promote service coordination for dependent adults through a multidisciplinary approach to the development of programs that directly support workers handling older adult abuse cases. CVLTSS aims to work in partnership with those participants who remain committed to the EAPRT ideals, as well as additional organizations to inform and encourage providers and consumers to have a voice in statewide policy discussions.

Community Living Implementation Council

At a Glance

Formed in 2011, the Community Living Implementation Council (CLIC) of Nevada County advocates for consumer-friendly access to long-term services and supports (LTSS), as well as increased agency collaboration. CLIC consists of 14 member organizations that provide services and programs to individuals with disabilities, older adults, caregivers, and family members. The vision is that all older adults and persons with disabilities live independent, fulfilling, and healthy lives. The Council's focus is to provide easy access to a broad array of services, a continuum of help in accessing services, and advocacy for individuals desiring LTSS and more information.

In 2016, collaborative efforts expanded to Yuba and Sutter counties with the creation of the Yuba-Sutter Aging and Disability Resource Connection Advisory committee with a focus on bi-county LTSS coordination.

Contra Costa Advisory Council on Aging

At a Glance

Formed in 1975, the Contra Costa Advisory Council on Aging (ACOA) leads and participates in county-wide education and advocacy initiatives focused on the needs of older adults. ACOA's mission is to transform the system of care so that older adults can age with dignity, choice, and independence. The ACOA consists of 40 members appointed by the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors to provide input on planning, development, and the administration of programs related to older adults. The focus of ACOA is to create a local policy platform to increase access to coordinated long-term support services (LTSS), encourage consumer advocacy, and be the community's leading resource for issues related to LTSS delivery and quality.

Diversability Advocacy Network

At a Glance

Formed in 2012, the Diversability Advocacy Network (DAN) is led in partnership by Disability Action Center and the North State Office of the State Council on Developmental Disabilities. DAN serves the Northern Sacramento Valley and surrounding mountain counties. DAN's primary focus in 2016 is to serve as a trusted and reliable source of information regarding health care changes, especially the shift to managed long-term services and supports (LTSS) in rural counties. DAN also advocates for older adults and persons with disabilities to ensure that new LTSS systems are accessible and support the continuity of care, as well as engaging directly with county agencies, community-based organizations, and health plans throughout the region.

Independent Living Workgroup of Kern County

At a Glance

In 2011, the Independent Living Center of Kern County began discussions with several organizations that serve seniors and people with disabilities. These organizations face similar administrative, local, and legislative barriers. The focus of these discussions was the impact of state-level policy decisions on the ability of providers in Kern to serve populations needing long-term services and supports (LTSS).

The Workgroup aims to serve as conduit to Kern County organizations and groups with overlapping interests and concerns, specifically elevating local and state-wide LTSS opportunities to support seniors and people with disabilities.

Inland Empire LTSS Coalition

At a Glance

Formed in 2008, the Inland Empire Long-Term Services and Supports (LTSS) Coalition brings together the expertise of critical pathway providers, community-based organizations, public officials, and consumers to implement strategies that improve LTSS. The Coalition's mission is to facilitate systems change across networks, programs, databases, and funding. This will improve efficiency in service referrals and leverage staff, materials, and service resources. The primary focus for the Coalition is to ensure that LTSS consumers have access to information in order to minimize confusion, enhance individual choice, and support informed decision-making. The Inland Empire LTSS Coalition also assists individuals transitioning out of institutional care and back into the community.

Los Angeles Aging Advocacy Coalition

At a Glance

The Los Angeles Aging Advocacy Coalition (LAAAC) was established in December 2009 and quickly filled a void at the local level for a unified entity organized to advocate on behalf of the aging community. LAAAC's mission is to preserve, protect, and strengthen access to quality care for older persons, their families, and caregivers in Los Angeles County. LAAAC's 45 member organizations aim to strategically inform, educate, and engage elected and appointed officials, as well as other key stakeholders regarding the issues impacting the aging community in Los Angeles. LAAAC focuses on educating and advocating on issues affecting older adults and their caregivers as well as engaging in the planning, designing, and implementation of service delivery and coordination models. Additionally, LAAAC offers educationally enriched opportunities for members and the community while also providing a forum to promote professional networking.

Monterey Bay Aging and Disability Resource Center Coalition

At a Glance

Formed in 2011, the Monterey Bay Aging and Disability Resource Center Coalition is a partnership of organizations that serve as the primary points of entry into the long-term services and supports (LTSS) provider network. The Coalition’s mission is to create a network that smoothly integrates services from several organizations to maximize ease of access for the individual or family seeking support. Our policy priority is to elevate the conversation about the challenges facing our local seniors and people with disabilities, and have local elected officials make those we serve a priority in their current planning and funding strategies.

Orange County Aging Services Collaborative

At a Glance

Formed in 2009, the Orange County Aging Services Collaborative (OCASC) promotes the importance of a person-centered, integrated system of services and supports that enables older adults to live more functional lives. OCASC members include nearly every nonprofit and governmental provider serving seniors in Orange County, acting as one coordinated voice to advocate on behalf of the county’s elderly population. As more individuals desire to age in place, OCASC focuses on the accessibility of quality doctors and services, as well as affordable long-term care options in their community. The Collaborative produces annual policy statements and organizes town hall forums, legislative breakfasts, and district visits to educate key stakeholders on the needs of seniors in Orange County.

Santa Barbara County Adult & Aging Network

At a Glance

The Adult & Aging Network (AAN) was created in 1999 as an advisory body to the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors. Its mission is to facilitate connection, collaboration, education and advocacy among stakeholders and service providers to improve the lives of older adults and people with disabilities. Bi-monthly meetings support coordination of existing services and identify priority needs and concerns in the areas of health, human services, education, safety and community access. Membership includes public, private and non-profit agencies, funders and community volunteers. The AAN is committed to creating a responsive and supportive community where all people can age with dignity, choice and independence. It merged with the Central Coast LTSS Coalition, led by the Independent Living Resource Center, in 2016.

Yolo Healthy Aging Alliance

At a Glance

Formed in 2010, the Yolo Healthy Aging Alliance (YHAA) was organized after a community-based summit identified gaps in service in Yolo County. YHAA's mission is to be a unified voice and enhance the well-being of Yolo County older adults through education, collaboration, and advocacy. The alliance includes 78 member organizations, half of which provide services to older adults and persons with disabilities. Also, all four local health care groups and Partnership HealthPlan are YHAA members. The primary focus of YHAA is to promote and advocate for the well-being of the aging community and their caregivers. Other focal points are to increase collaboration between service providers and to educate the public about issues confronting older adult and disabled populations.
